

PUBLICATION RIGHTS TRANSFER

The aim of this text is to transfer from the Author(s) to the International Laparoscopy and Robotic Surgery Association, the publisher of the Robotics, Laparoscopy & Endosurgery, the publication rights of all printed, electronic and currently known or future forms of the work with the name specified below and all its sections.

1. The Publisher will print the revised and rearranged form of the text as an article provided that it is accepted. The Author(s) will not receive any copyright or compensation for the use of the material contained in the article. This agreement will become null and void if the article is not accepted for publication and all rights will continue to belong to the Author(s).
2. The undersigned Author(s) warrant that the article with the title and author names written below is original. The publication right of the article has not previously been transferred in any way, or permission has been obtained and this permission document has been presented to the Robotics, Laparoscopy & Endosurgery if it has been transferred. Each Author therefore waives all personal rights on the printed, electronic or any future form of the article with the title presented below and assigns these rights exclusively to the publisher of the Robotics, Laparoscopy & Endosurgery.
3. The Publisher reserves the exclusive right to copy or reproduce the content of the printed article in part or in full.
